Russians Cross Dnieper River At Many Points

Moscow Report Says "Hundreds" Of Nazi Soldiers Drown In River

RED FORCES DRIVE INTO WHITE RUSSIA

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—The Soviet high command announced today that Red army troops reached the banks of the middle Dnieper along a 250-mile front and hurled "hundreds" of defending Nazi soldiers to their deaths in the swirling muddy waters of the river.

Front-line dispatches said the Russians stormed across the Dnieper at six points between the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and the river bank city of Dnepropetrovsk. At Kremenchuk, 165 miles southeast of Kiev, the Soviet command declared that "hundreds of Germans drowned in the Dnieper attempting to escape."

Gain New Foothold
(A dispatch from Moscow to Reuters' news agency in London reported that Gen. Konstantin Rokossovsky's troops have gained a new foothold on the east bank of the Dnieper 100 miles northeast of Kiev.)

Far to the north, other Russian columns smashed westward from captured Smolensk to penetrate at least thirty miles into White Russia on the route to Poland.

A Pravda war correspondent reported from the front today that German counter-attacks mounted in intensity as Red army units raced along the last 40-mile advance toward the railroad and highway junction of Gomel.

He reported German tank detachments battling fiercely for every village and river crossing in the Russians' path following Soviet capture of Novozybkov, 40 miles to the east on the railway to Bryansk. Novozybkov, junction of six highways and two railroads fell after a furious 24-hour battle, the Pravda writer said.

Drive Against Burma Appears Next Offensive In Battle On Nipponese

(Editor's note: Coming offensive action in the Far East is discussed in the following article by Major Paul C. Raborg, noted military analyst and author of "Mechanized Might.")

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
Written Especially For International News Service
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—It appears definite that Anglo-American strategy has dictated offensive action out of India against Japan via Burma. Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's appointment as commander-in-chief of the East India command confirmed that fact. Such a command in no way conflicts with General MacArthur's objectives.

To shuttle-bomb Tokyo and other principal Nipponese cities out of existence, Allied bombers must be based on mainland Asia as close as possible to the Japanese home islands. Vladivostok or other Russian Asiatic territory cannot be used for bases as long as the Soviet is not at war with Nippon. Our Aleutian islands are too great a distance for sustained bombing attack against Tokyo. Assaults based on Kiska are excellent for diversionary purposes. The range of bombers must be increased or the Allies must acquire closer bases of attack.

For China Bases
Under present conditions, it would seem that Anglo-American air bases must be established on the east coast of China somewhere between Tientsin and Shanghai. But the all important question is how to place Allied troops at that location.

Five Senators Back From War Tour Of World

Believe Gen. MacArthur Should be Commander-In-Chief In Pacific Area

MUST KEEP CHINA FROM QUITTING WAR

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—Five United States senators, back home after a 37,000-mile globe-circling tour of war operations, declared today Gen. Douglas MacArthur is the only man who can win the war in the Pacific in the shortest time and with the least cost of lives.

Sen. A. C. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, echoing the views of the others in the group, said "there must be a commander-in-chief who will carry out this strategy and he is Gen. MacArthur."

Britain Not Enthusiastic
"Britain never has been enthusiastic about a major front in the Pacific," Chandler said. "When we were in England, Winston Churchill gave us no assurance of a genuine front in the India-Burma-China theater of war. We saw Lord Louis Mountbatten and his appointment as British commander was announced at that time.

"We don't know the extent of Mountbatten's command. He has (Continued On Page Six)

Southern Italy Town Becomes Nation's Capital

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—A town in southern Italy recently captured by the Allies now is the temporary national capital, of Italy, according to a Reuter dispatch from Brindisi today.

King Victor Emanuel III, Crown Prince Umberto, Premier Pietro Badoglio and other leaders of the royal government were reported to be in the town, busily engaged in government affairs. They and his family were said to have arrived there early this month following German occupation of Rome.

The Brindisi dispatch gave no hint as to the identity of Italy's "provisional capital." It could be Brindisi itself, Taranto or Bari. Those three are the most important of the southern Italian towns which fall in the category of "recently captured."

Giant American Flying Fortresses Smash At German Shipbuilding Center

ATTACK FOLLOWS HUGE NIGHT RAID

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Giant American Flying Fortresses smashed at the German shipbuilding center of Emden today in the wake of night assaults on industrial targets in the Rhineland by RAF Mosquito bombers.

The American Fortresses roared deep into the continent to rain tons of high explosives on the northernmost German naval base of Emden this morning. Emden, at the mouth of the Ems river, is the site of important naval installations, oil plants and shipbuilding and repair yards.

American twin-engine bombers meanwhile roared over the channel for a morning assault on the big Beauvaisville airbase in western France. The speedy Yank raiders were escorted to their targets by RAF Spitfire fighters.

No Raiders Lost
Specific targets of the Mosquito raids on the Rhineland were not immediately announced. An air ministry spokesman announced that none of the raiders was lost in the night's operations, which also included "intruder" sweeps over Holland by Canadian planes. One Axis bomber was shot down by the Canadians.

The raid on Emden was the second against the Nazi-held continent carried out by American Fortresses within 12 hours. Early last (Continued On Page Six)

More Key Towns Taken By Allies In Naples Drive

Both British And American Armies Making Advances In Italy

ALLIED PLANES GIVE HUGE AID

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 27.—Allied armies were revealed today to have seized four more key towns in concerted drives on the big Nazi bases of Foggia and Naples, on both sides of the battle-torn Italian mainland.

Storming across the Ofanto river, the British Eighth Army drove nine miles northwest from captured Canosa to seize the inland town of Cernignola, 22 miles southeast of Foggia.

Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's U. S. fifth army simultaneously captured the mountain stronghold of Calabritto, 11 miles northeast of Campagna and 25 miles northeast of Salerno. Also seized in the drive through the hills shielding Naples was the town of Cassano.

In the center of the blazing Italian front, British troops engulfed the village of Muro, 19 miles west of the captured communications hub of Potenza.

Allied Planes Aid
Swarms of allied warplanes fought inclement weather to provide a constant air cover over the ground troops and ranged out to batter enemy troop concentrations north of Salerno.

Fighters and fighter-bombers smashed at road transport and junctions in the Amalfi area of the Sorrento peninsula, west of Salerno, and motor transport north of the town of Foggia. The Nazi-operated airbase at Pomigliano D'Arco near Naples also was pounded by fighter-bombers. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced.

(International News Service)
VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 27.—A financially-minded bookkeeper, now an Army Air Force navigator, in a letter to his parents today, asked them to assure the taxpayers that he won't lose another plane.

The navigator, Lieut. J. W. Dalton, mentioned only casually that his ship had been shot down over the English Channel and that he and his companions had been picked up 60 miles off the coast by a British air-sea rescue craft.

"We are still mad about losing that plane—it sure was a good one," he wrote. "Tell the taxpayers we're sorry about losing that plane—it won't happen again."

Late figures from the treasury department disclosed that Nebraska was fifth from the bottom among the 48 states, only 52 per cent of its quota subscribed compared with 74 per cent for Pennsylvania up to Thursday night.

Allied Troops Now Closing In On Finchhafen

Japanese Supply Port In New Guinea Is Believed Near Fall

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 27.—Allied jungle troops closed in from three directions today on the important Japanese supply port at Finchhafen in northeastern New Guinea.

One force, composed of Australian troops who landed September 22 six miles north of Finchhafen, battled stiffened enemy resistance three-quarters of a mile from the enemy base after crossing the Bumli river, last natural barrier protecting the town on the north.

Push Six Miles
Other elements of the original amphibious force were disclosed to have pushed six miles inland to Sateberg, where they now menace the enemy's rear 10 miles from Finchhafen.

A third striking force drove toward the Jap supply port from the southeast after advancing half way to Finchhafen from captured Lae. An Allied communiqué placed this body of troops at Hanisch harbor, 20 miles northeast of Lae.

While the Allied noose around Finchhafen was drawn tighter, increasing the menace to New Britain Island and Rabaul, biggest Jap base in the southwest Pacific, planes of the Allied south Pacific command again pounded enemy bases in the Solomons, to the east.

Nine of 16 intercepting 'lap' fighter planes were shot down as Allied heavy bombers, torpedo planes and dive-bombers, escorted by fighter (Continued On Page Two)

TRUCK CONVOYS ARE HAMMERED BY AIR FORCES

(International News Service)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 27.—Attacks on enemy troops concentrations and truck convoys in the Naples and Foggia areas in the Italian battle zone, despite bad weather which grounded most of the Northwest Africa Air Force, were announced today.

Motor transport north of Foggia and in the Benevento-Amalfi areas were hit hard. Troops concentrations south of Salerno were attacked. American Mitchell medium bombers penetrated heavy cloud formations to blast German troop concentrations in the Salerno area. British and Australian Kittyhawks blasted truck convoys and scored two direct hits on parked enemy aircraft at the Pomigliano D'Arco airbase.

The Mitchell pilots reported seeing huge billows of smoke following their attack on the Salerno area. No planes were lost.

County Quota Is Passed By Half Million

Figures Today Show Bond Sales Total $6,874,565—Quota $6,307,000

ELLWOOD CITY IS COUNTY LEADER

Lawrence County has exceeded its quota in the Third War Bond campaign. Roger Jewett, deputy chairman of the campaign in this county announced this afternoon from the Greater New Castle Association offices that the total subscriptions as of today are $6,874,565. The quota for the county was set at $6,307,000 which means that the quota is now over-subscribed $567,165.

The total sales as of today include the large subscriptions by corporations and an allocation of $342,000 by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Commonwealth made a large purchase of bonds and allocated each county a share. Outside of corporate purchases and the state allocation, the campaign here shows considerable hesitancy upon the part of the people in buying.

The quota for the "E" bonds was set at $2,337,000. The sale to date is $2,627,660.75 or slightly over 25 per cent.

Ellwood City is the bright spot of the campaign. On a quota of $980,000 they have a percentage of about 260 per cent.

New Castle's report in the campaign reveals that with a quota of $4,817,400, sales to date are $3,535,149.50. Also the number of individual subscriptions is down from the second campaign. In that campaign over 22,000 persons subscribed. In the present campaign thus far there are but 10,362 subscribers.

The war bond campaign lasts until the end of the month. In that time the districts of the county that are back of their quota have an opportunity to pick up the slack.

On Saturday the Slovak ladies had charge of the International Institute war bond booths and turned in a total of $6,125, a creditable showing. Today the ladies of Russian descent have charge of the booths.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—H. C. Nahlgan was not so much dismayed today at the loss of $30,000 worth of Oriental and Persian rugs from his store as he was scornful of the taste of the burglars who broke into his store over the week-end.

"I don't know who they were," he said, "but I can tell you one thing—they were not connoisseurs. They picked out cheap rugs worth only $2,000 and $3,000 a piece."

Nahlgan did not offer to make an exchange, however.

The teams he insisted would wallop the foe were ground in the dust of defeat, and his lunch money's gone and unless he recovers, he may have to sleep in the street. It proves once again as it's proven before, you never know just who will win, it's a gamble at best and a long one most times and it gobbles your hard gathered tin. # Sees Soldiers Voting In 1944

Texas Congressman Says Overseas Servicemen May Vote Next Year

BILL IS BEFORE CONGRESS NOW

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Rep. Worley (D., Tex.), chairman of the house committee on election of president, vice president and congressmen, predicted today that soldiers and navy departments will soon support efforts to give overseas soldiers a vote in the 1944 election. This would reverse their stand of a year ago.

Seek to Provide Ballots
At the same time, the Texas disclosed that his committee will start hearings next month on a bill he has introduced to provide each man and woman in overseas units with a V-mail absentee ballot for the next presidential election a year hence.

Congress last September enacted a law intended to allow absentee voting, but the army and navy both opposed it, and in actual operation it was a failure. Less than 30,000 absentee ballots were cast in the 1942 election by those outside the continental United States.

The United States currently has two million men and women in uniform abroad, with the probability that this figure will be greatly increased by the time the '44 elections occur. Their vote might well be a deciding issue in a close presidential race.

Huge Military Task
Opposition to the 1942 absentee law by the armed services was based on the contention that the location of military units might be disclosed and that the task was too great to tackle.

Worley, who himself was serving in the navy in 1942, thinks this attitude is now in the process of changing.

Whether a system can be worked out so that soldiers can ballot in the spring primaries is doubtful, Worley added. He said he would like to see it done, but he pointed out that the states have different primary dates, a fact which will further complicate the picture.

Some politicians foresee the possibility that a large soldier vote in a close presidential race might put the outcome in doubt well into December, 1944. Each state has its own date for counting absentee ballots, some of them falling as much as a month after election day.

DRIVE AGAINST BURMA APPEARS NEXT OFFENSIVE

Julius—protects Japan from amphibious assault out of the south. Her north-south line of island bases—New Britain and the Caroline, Marshall, Marianas and Ogasawara groups against—gives equal protection against offensive action from the East. Furthermore, either of those routes of attack against the Japanese home islands involve distances which are too great for the use of land-based fighter planes that are all-necessary in any sustained offensive.

Therefore, it would seem under present conditions that the only route of attack with the object of reaching China is via French Indo-China. Thus by deduction, it can be assumed that Lord Louis Mountbatten's East India command will have as its first major objective the Malayan peninsula and French Indo-China, of course by way of Burma. That will be the Allied northern arm of attack. By the same process of thought, it appears that General MacArthur will lead the southern arm of assault, with the same objectives, out of Australia to New Guinea, thence westward through the Dutch East Indies to the Malayan peninsula where his forces might join with those of Mountbatten. In such an eventuality, as the senior, General MacArthur would normally assume the high command. Such a plan develops a giant pincer attack which will recapture as it goes much of Japan's new civilian empire.

We aren't yet civilized so long as people can work hard and avoid waste and yet remain dirt poor.

STETTINUS SEEN AS INDICATION OF CONSERVATIVE TREND

improbable that he will make any speeches urging an end to British imperialism, as Welles did. On the other hand, he is expected to have the confidence of congress, which was inclined to be somewhat concurred over Welles internationalism.

Confirmation Seen
Stettinius' nomination is expected to be sent to the senate Tuesday when that body convenes, and swift confirmation is foreseen.

Transfer of Stettinius from his job as lend-lease administrator to the second most important position in the state department came as a complete surprise to diplomatic Washington. Appointment of a business man as undersecretary of state is a departure from the traditional practice of filling that post with a professional diplomat.

Embassy row reacted cautiously to the new appointment. There were no immediate signs of rejecting Stettinius is something of an unknown quantity to the diplomats. They are aware of his fine record as lend-lease administrator, but his views on foreign affairs generally are unknown.

A sense of uncertainty prevailed in Latin-American diplomatic quarters. Welles, who spoke Spanish fluently, played a leading role in framing the good neighbor policy. The Latin-Americans were hoping a man familiar with their part of the world would be appointed his successor.

Meanwhile, the possibility was seen that Stettinius might accompany Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the forthcoming meeting in Moscow of American, British and Russian foreign ministers. One of the new undersecretary's chief tasks and lend-lease administrator was to keep a steady stream of American supplies flowing to the Soviet Union. It was through his knowledge of the aid the United States has given Russia might prove helpful at the Moscow conference.

planes, blasted gun positions and buildings at Kahili, on Bougainville Island. Two Allied fighters were listed as missing.

Hiti by Bombers

Vila, on Kolombangara Island, last Jap outpost in the central Solomons, was heavily assaulted twice by medium bombers, torpedo planes and dive-bombers.

The drive on Finchhafen from the north proceeded cautiously as Allied jungle troops approached a strongly fortified system of trenches and earthworks guarding the heart of the enemy base after crossing the Bumi river.

The ground action was supported by Allied attack planes which heavily bombed and strafed Jap positions and enemy held villages along the river, causing violent explosions and vast fires.

Japanese airmen retaliated with a raid on Allied positions at the Song river, seven miles north of Finchhafen. Nine Jap bombers, escorted by fighter planes, attacked after dawn with "minor effect."

Meanwhile, Allied warplanes continued to blast Japanese communication lines between Finchhafen and Madang, big enemy base to the northwest.

RUSSIANS CROSS DNEIPER RIVER AT MANY POINTS

Dnieper near Kiev, Dniepropetrovsk and Krenenchuk, front reports and German broadcasts heard in Moscow indicated some Russian troops already were fighting on the German-held side of the river.

One front dispatch said small Soviet bridgeheads are believed to have been established on the west bank of the Dnieper between Dniepropetrovsk and Kiev as the Russians apparently attempted to stab spearheads behind the Ukrainian capital in an enveloping movement.

Dispatches from the Ukrainian front meanwhile told of Russian attempts to ford the Dnieper at several points under a powerful air umbrella and under cover of a GOF.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, one of Berlin's foremost military commentators, was quoted in dispatches reaching Stockholm as warning the German people that "we must expect new Russian attempts to break through toward the lower Dnieper and enter the Crimea." Sertorius said the Nazis in an effort to save communication lines into the Crimea and acknowledged that powerful Russian artillery units are being massed north of the Sea of Azov in a threat to those communications.

To the north, meanwhile, a victory-fueled Russian troops raced westward from Smolensk in a drive on Vitebsk. Soviet capture of Borovaya, 30 miles north of Vitebsk, placed the Russians 30 miles within the borders of White Russia.

On all fronts yesterday from Smolensk to the Sea of Azov, more than 800 towns, villages and hamlets were re-captured by the Red army in bitter battles resulting in the slaying of at least 3,500 Nazi troops.

Retreat Old Route

Moscow, Sept. 27.—The old Smolensk road, which saw the retreat of Napoleon's army, today feels the tread of retreating Nazi hordes.

The battles for the city of Smolensk in many cases took place on difficult terrain abundant with boggy, thick forests and small rivers with boggy banks. The change of the terrain altered the nature of the battles and deprived the enemy of the use of "fluid" material.

The enemy attempted to delay the offensive with a heavy artillery and trench mortar barrage. A colossal amount of field guns were concentrated along the Mord-Smolensk-Smolensk automobile road and a parallel railroad.

The battles for Smolensk were, in effect, battles for Bielo Russia. For many Bielo Russians living in Moscow and other cities to which they were evacuated the appearance of the term "in the Gomel direction" in military news shows that the red army soon will enter their homeland.

The fate of Gomel was sealed by the capture of Unecha, an important railroad junction on the road to Gomel. Unecha is on the last uncut railroad from Bryansk to Gomel and Orsha, 55 miles west southwest of Smolensk.

REJECT NAZI DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Istanbul dispatches today asserted the Rumanian government has rejected a new Nazi demand for increased "cooperation" in the Balkans now that the Italian army no longer is garrisoning Axis-conquered nations.

The dispatches were quoted by the Brazzaville Fighting French radio in a broadcast heard by the FCC.

HULL AT HOT SPRINGS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull was in Hot Springs, Va., today for a brief rest.

It was believed possible that Hull was taking a few days rest in anticipation of the long air journey to Moscow next month to attend the meeting of American, British and Soviet foreign ministers.

Fruit trees planted this fall should have a mulch of coarse manure or vegetable matter around them to protect the soil against alternate freezing and thawing.

ON THE TRANSPORTATION
FRONTBack
THE
Attack!Put your dollars to action to smash the Axis! Back up the boys by buying War Bonds now!

TWENTY-FOUR hours every day there is a tremendous battle being fought on the American transportation front.

Vital war materials and equipment must be rushed wherever needed. Raw materials for war plants—fuel for homes and factories—food for families and our armed forces—essential civilian goods—all must be delivered swiftly and safely.

Millions of troops must be carried to training camps—to embarkation ports from the camps. War workers and essential travelers must be transported to keep our industries running full blast.

It is up to Erie and other American railroads to win this battle of transportation. And every piece of railroad equipment and all facilities must be used to maximum capacity.

All of our 25,000 employees are backing the attack on the transportation front for Erie. Of this total more than 14,500 trained employees are working in shops, roundhouses, in the yards, and along the right of way.

These men are working day and night keeping equipment in efficient running condition, maintaining rigid inspections, checking and double checking operating conditions, safeguarding every mile of the roadbed. They are on the battlefield keeping the trains rolling so that precious supplies will be delivered safely without delay.

They are the "ground forces" that make sure America continues in war as in peace to have the finest and most economical transportation in the world.

CORSICA A SYMBOL

FRENCHMEN are fighting on French metropolitan soil in Corsica to oust the Nazis. They are aided by Americans and are getting some assistance from Italians, but to Frenchmen—and especially in Nazi-occupied France—the fighting in Corsica is a symbol and a hope. They see in it a promise that the time is drawing nearer when Frenchmen will be fighting to drive the invaders out of all France.

General Giraud, after an inspection of the fighting front in Corsica, predicted that the Nazis would be conquered in a few days. This is probably a correct appraisal of the situation unless the Germans succeed in reinforcing the troops on the island.

Corsica had been held by France from 1796 until its occupation by the Nazis. Italians under Mussolini shouted hysterically at times for its "return" to Italy. How wrong the Italians were is clear now that many of them may be wondering whether there will be an Italy after this war.

WAR-BORN CHANGES

There is every indication that changes will continue to occur in this changing world in the period following the war. There has been considerable speculation as to the changes that will be apparent a decade hence.

Men of science tell of new type homes, automobiles which will only faintly resemble the car of today, ships of the air as safe as land transportation and almost as common as motor cars, homes having as necessities fixtures which today are regarded as luxuries. These changes are in the realm of science.

But there is another change which may be looked forward to with even more certainty than material improvements in homes and methods of transportation. This is in the community viewpoint. People will be informed of places which today are only names on a map. American fighting men are serving in practically all sections of the globe—throughout Africa, Asia, South America, the South Seas, Iceland, Alaska and Europe.

These men will remember their experiences in these formerly remote places. Americans will be much better informed of other lands and other races and undoubtedly many ideas formerly foreign to America will become common following the return of the fighting men.

THE GERMAN MIND

Except for his exploit terms of "peace," it turns out that the principal factors about the flight of Rudolf Hess to Scotland in the spring of 1941 were well covered in news dispatches at the time. Whether or not he flew to Britain on Hitler's orders, whether this was an individual undertaking or a concerted plot, the British government does not even now appear to know. Hess asserts it was his own idea, not Hitler's.

For the rest, main interest in this remarkable episode must reside in the proof once more given of the completeness with which the official German mind misjudges the temper of other peoples. Hess's proposition was that as Hitler was bound to win, the British might as well give up. All that Britain had to do was to get rid of Prime Minister Churchill, return the colonies Germany lost in the last war, give Hitler a free hand in Europe and against Russia, and then Hitler would grant Britain a "free hand" within the British empire!

This was the man whom Hitler had named his Number Two successor, after Goering. There could be no sharper illustration of the issues this war presents and of the absolute need of pressing Allied victories to the point of Germany's unconditional surrender.

It could be wished that Hess's thoughts were peculiar to the Nazi mentality. But his arrogant misjudgment of Britain is all too characteristic of the German habit of mind. The Allies' problem of dealing with the Reich will not be solved when the Reich is defeated.

REASSAYING COLLEGE AIMS

Some readjustments unquestionably will be made at the top of the American educational system to fit it to give the greatest possible service in the postwar world. That is far from implying anything revolutionary.

But in some respects it is going to be a different sort of a world, and in it there will be pressure to have the colleges and universities put tremendous stress on "practical" rather than cultural aims. Heads of many privately endowed institutions in America are girding themselves to resist the pressure.

Dr. Robert Clothier, president of Rutgers university, in a recent article in The Educational Record, is more optimistic than some on that score. He says: "We believe that the basic tenets of our educational faith will be preserved, for the ultimate success of any society, particularly a democratic society, must depend upon the intelligence and character as well as upon the skills and expertness of the individual. In particular that is the purpose of our liberal arts disciplines. We believe the liberal arts will be fully restored to their proper place in our educational philosophy."

Yet this cultural education, as contrasted with equally important technical education, ought to be somehow reassayed, in Dr. Clothier's opinion. Profound as is the satisfaction it gives the individual in present and in later life, he makes the point that perhaps people will swing to the viewpoint "that knowledge used for the common good is a higher goal than knowledge for its own sake." Failure to realize it in the past may be the reason, he thinks, "why our technological skills have outstripped our social philosophy."

Conceding that many students are not capable of it, the head of Rutgers cannot be wrong in his feeling that the colleges have not paid enough attention to the encouragement of original thinking. Tutorial and preceptorial plans, these and comprehensive tests have been applied to this end in some institutions. Dr. Clothier longs for the day when such techniques will be improved and applied to special groups in all institutions of higher learning.

After all, sound and original thinkers must be the hope and reliance of this and every other nation.

It, as predicted the world ends in November, it will be missed.

It is understood that Mussolini's private phrenologist has found some new bumps on his head.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DELINQUENCY RISE HOME PROBLEM

According to the Mayor's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency of the City of New York, delinquency took a marked increase during the first six months of this year over a similar period last year.

The greatest increase was, in order, truancy, burglary, sly entry away from home, disobeying parents, robbery, assaults and threats.

The committee emphasized the group of offenses "misconduct in the home," and this group continued the upward trend noticeable last year and the year before. Obviously, truancy is chiefly a home problem, so is burglary. In the last analysis, any juvenile delinquency almost surely leads back to the home.

The committee's data are based on the juvenile court records. They do not, of course, include the many similar cases that escape the courts.

Laxity in Home Control

We can infer that misconduct by children centering around the home is rapidly increasing. This inference is supported by what I read in my mail and what I have learned in the past year in conference with mayors, judges, police officers, school authorities, court officials and social workers in various parts of the United States. What is most distressing is that laxity in home control is so widely prevalent in homes of the upper-half of our population, economically and educationally. As I have said repeatedly in this column, if most parents of opportunity were to discipline their children better, we soon might hope for a marked decrease in juvenile delinquency and crime.

Causes of Delinquency

One large reason we are not having better disciplined children in the "good homes" is the doctrine of no-spanking and warning against restraint which the more-privileged parents have widely accepted and practiced. I have long believed that this teaching which is the prevailing one even now, has been the leading single cause, next to the decline in religion, of the disgraceful prevalence of delinquency and crime.

The marked increase in home offenses, truancy and burglary may have some relation to this war, especially where mothers work. When both parents are away from home it is easy for the youngsters to "play hooky." Also unprotected children have more temptations to take or destroy other people's property.

My special bulletin, "Suggestions to Working Mothers," may be had for postage by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. This bulletin does not scold working mothers but tries to show them how to do best by their children under the circumstances. Of course, we wish no mother would work away from home any more, she can provide adequate protection for her young children.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should a boy 13 years old wash dishes and do other household work?

A. Yes, of course.

The World and the Mud Puddles

"SIMPLIFIED FORM"

That humorist in the Treasury Department who first called the September 15 income tax return a "simplified form" ought to get together sometime with the prohibitionists who would like to see the public that "near beer" was a beverage. Their efforts to amuse themselves in their moments of relaxation should be something to behold.

While interest in the "near beer" genius is more or less lost in antiquity, it is interesting to speculate upon the diversions which would fascinate this "simplified form" gent. He probably starts to relax by adding up a few long columns of figures, combining the totals and then multiplying the whole sum by the date. If he wants to let down in a big way, he might go on and subtract the year, divide the result by his age, add how long it takes a frog to get out of a twenty-foot well if he jumps two feet and slides back every two hours. Becoming enthusiastic, he then could add together the license numbers of every third automobile, and multiply this total by his house number.

Silly? Well, how else did he figure out this "simplified form" stuff for September 15?

Those citizens who are able to get to the desk in the Income Tax office and obtain the help of a distracted clerk there should obtain if possible the attestation of the clerk that he assisted in the preparation of the return.

On second thought, that would be very unfair to the clerk.

If our country's flag is used to cover a casket, the blue field should be at the head and cover the left shoulder of the deceased, and the casket should be carried foot first. The flag must not touch the ground nor be lowered into the grave.

Inside Washington

National Capital Pleasant In Autumn
Lawmakers Revitalized Following Rest
Singing Lunches Proving Popular Now

By HELEN ESSARY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The capitol of the United States is looking mighty fine this late September. It's shining with the good intentions of the lawmakers plus a gallon or two of brass and window polish.

A strong current of clear air is blowing through the corridors. The returning legislators brought it with them from that recent refresher course they had back in their districts.

The capitol is a pleasant place to go nowadays than it was the hot, stale days of July before congress adjourned for the recess. Also you can tell by the look in the legislative eye that the lawmakers have returned to Washington recharged for good work.

They have taken on an extra muscle, too. Some of them have been sawing wood—not entirely political wood, either. The majority leader in the Senate, Alben Barkley, "got a mowin' blade and an axe and a hammer and saw and some nails" and went to work on the meadows, the woods and the fences of his old Kentucky home. He filled in for the hired man now gone to war. He said he had a hard time getting timber down there where he came from. You had to wait for the cypress to grow up into sizeable trees before you could cut it down.

Senator Barkley told a good story the other day when somebody asked him for an opinion on the foreign policy of the Republican party. He said he'd have to give an answer that was about as definite as the sermon of a parson down home. The parson didn't want to hurt his congregation's feelings by being too sharp so he said, "I implore you to change your ways—in a measure. Refrain from sinning—to a certain extent. Or you'll be damned—as it were."

Alben Barkley is a capable and conscientious lawmaker who, as President Roosevelt's spokesman in the senate, has had to dodge a missile aimed at the White House without knowing exactly how the White House wanted him to dodge.

Another popular southern lawmaker, Senator Sam Rayburn, is back briskly tending to the administration's business in the capitol. The secession from Texas cut a pink and blue birthday cake the other day in celebration of his third year as speaker of the house. I said to Mr. Sam, as they call him down in the Fourth district:

"You're certainly a man of ability and integrity, but there must be other reasons for your long success in public life." The speaker was in the Texas legislature when he barely was out of his teens.

"Well," said Mr. Sam, picking his words carefully. "I always believe in people. I trust people and they never let me down. When campaign times come around, I don't make a lot of false, high falutin' promises. I just say I'll do the best I can. And I keep my word. Now looking back a little, if you'll permit me, for the 30 years since I first came to Washington the House of Representatives has been my whole life."

A nice life to have, I thought. Nice in many ways. A life of power and national accomplishment. The capitol is a happy place to work in, too. The offices of the speaker are a particularly agreeable shop.

There are many such agreeable offices in the capitol. They give you a feeling of permanence. Make you know that the American world is going well. No wonder the members (Continued On Page Five)

A sign of faith for doubting souls! To wit: a pair of orioles.

No monarch's crown or diadem Has craftsmanship alike to them. Exquisite were the robes they wore In colors of Lord Baltimore. Designed the eye of man to hold. Two lovely gems of black and gold!

Perhaps the good Lord knew that men Would turn to doubting now and then. And hurt by grief and pressed by care Lose faith that God is everywhere And so loose orioles, black and black, Were fashioned just to win us back.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D. Mont.): "I place the entire blame for the whole manpower muddle squarely on the administration. . . . There are plenty of single men available (for the draft) who now hold government jobs as well as private jobs and should be called (before father)."

LONDON — War Production Board Chief Donald M. Nelson: "Very soon, the U. S. will be turning out a completed plane every five minutes around the clock, every day of the month."

Realities And The OCD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. WHEN some weeks ago, Mr. James Lamm resigned as head of the Office of Civilian Defense to become economic director of the Middle East, there was a widespread feeling that, considering the state of the war, the OCD was ripe to be abolished—or, at least, curtailed.

BUT, THAT is not the idea of the Acting Director, Mr. John B. Martin—not by a long shot. In a statement just issued Mr. Martin somewhat excitedly rejects the suggestion that by reason of the disappearance of all danger of anything resembling large-scale enemy air raids in this country, the OCD should be dismantled, diminished or diverted. Quite vehemently, he asserts that the bombing danger has not passed and declares this assertion is based on the opinion of "military authorities."

OF COURSE, Mr. Martin is wrong on both counts. The danger of large-scale bombing, always exaggerated, is now definitely over and there is no sense in pretending otherwise. Even the possibility of "bolt raids," so remote as to be practically negligible. And any qualification to the contrary from a "military authority" will have been acquired through White House-bureau pressure such, for example, as the kind a year ago as that which induced Under Secretary of War Patterson to send love letters to bombastic labor leaders eulogizing the "unselfish and patriotic" cooperation of organized labor at a time when many millions of war contracts under his own department were being held up by strikes, walk-outs and slowdowns.

THE FACT is that every competent military authority privately agrees that the necessity for the OCD as it now has been expanded no longer exists. One of our Axis foes has been knocked out of the war. Both the others are on the defensive. To contend that the danger of enemy bombing remains the same is foolish. While, in the first part of his statement, Mr. Martin appears to make this contention, in the last part he appears to abandon it by admitting that changed conditions make certain "adaptations and modifications" desirable. ## Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

You will, undoubtedly, be very happy to know that Mrs. Henrietta Gunther of Trenton, N. J., has her bedspread back.

If you had spent months and months making a beautiful cream-colored hand-crocheted bed-spread, you wouldn't let any gosh-darn laundry send it back to you, all stiff, with a pink tint, the fringes knotted and "the tensile strength and wearability lessened."

Most of us have had plenty of trouble with our bedspreads, but haven't Mrs. Gunther's gumption. She went right to court and got $75 damages from the laundry people. They paid the money but refused to give her the bedspread.

Mrs. Gunther didn't need the $75, but she did need and want her spread.

In the first place, money may be good to cover a good many things, but not a bed.

And, in the second, when a thing has sentimental value all the money in the world can't repay its loss.

So Henrietta went to court again and the judge, being a wise and married man, said to the laundry: "Give Mrs. Gunther her bedspread" and give it they did!

So now she has her spread and $75, which, as you will agree, makes a pretty good combination.

It's too bad more of us haven't the nerve to go to the bat when we are being played for suckers. Everybody tells you nowadays "It's the war, what can you expect?"

That's a lot of rot. Just an excuse for a lot of lazy loafers to lie down on the job.

I have always found that it takes no longer or more effort to do a job right than to spoil it.

A crook has to have more ingenuity to keep out of jail than an honest person has to have to make a living.

It seems to me that in spite of all the admonitions to work hard, to put your shoulder to the wheel, to hurry the end of the war, inefficiency, impudence and shiftlessness are having a field day.

With employers everywhere begging for help, a lot of bums get good jobs and then go to "work" and give as little help as they can. I have to close, got to catch the next train for Washington.

MURPHY-LAWRENCE WEDDING SATURDAY

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, in the parlors of the First United Presbyterian church, Glenmore boulevard, Miss Marilyn J. Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murphy of Highland Heights, became the bride of William Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lawrence, R. D. 3, at an impressive ceremony.

Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor, officiated with the single ring service. The bride was becomingly attired in a wine velvet street length dress, with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was tea roses and white snapdragons, and wore a gold heart shaped locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

As their only attendants, Doris and Donna Murphy, sisters of the bride, wore blue and white crepe dresses, street length. Their shoulder bouquets were pink and white roses.

At noon, a full course wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. Aiding were Mrs. Herbert Ward and Miss Nadene Ward.

At a special guest, they had George R. Lawrence, Seaman of the U. S. Navy, stationed at Portsmouth, Va., brother of the bridegroom.

Many lovely gifts received by the couple, were displayed.

After a congratulatory period and informal reception for relatives and friends, the couple left on a trip to Wildwood in the Alleghenies. They will later take up residence in Canton, O., where Mr. Lawrence is employed with the Timkin Roller Bearing company.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS (Continued From Page Four)

these "adaptations" he suggests is the use in the "more remote inland communities" of the OCD to supplement the "depleted normal services of the community such as police, fire and medical."

IN NO part of his statement does Mr. Martin suggest that OCD might meet these changed conditions by shrinking its organization and reducing its pay roll. For, despite its large volunteer force, it has a large pay roll and spends a lot of money. But, shrinking an organization in that way is the last idea to occur to the head of a Government agency. From suggestions of that kind they recoil as from a rattlesnake. Actually, Mr. Martin's statement conforms perfectly to the New Deal party line in such matters. It justifies the charge that always when the need for an agency has ended, some way is found to "keep going." Even when the agency is abolished by Congressional action, the jobholders merely transfer to some other board or bureau.

OF COURSE, the time has come to reduce the OCD to a size necessary only to protect the limited coastal localities from the exceedingly unlikely local raid that conceivably may occur. It would be a welcome relief to the people generally to be rid of useless blackouts and air-raid alarms. It would be pleasant, too, for the heavily burdened taxpayer to feel that an unnecessary drain on the public funds had been stopped; that the steady stream of millions required by the full-sized OCD had been reduced to a trickle. Certainly, it was essential when we entered the war to guard against the air-raid danger. As it turned out, the danger never materialized, but it might have. Now the danger is over, the foolishness of continuing to protect the whole country as though it continued unabated is too apparent to be ignored.

AND IT is equally foolish to invent excuses for keeping this huge organization going at full speed—such as supplementing police, fire and medical services in rural communities or preventing strikes, sabotage and slowdowns. The OCD was not created to enter such fields. It is not equipped to enter them and to attempt to enter them would result merely in increasing the already very great Washington confusion. Nor need one fear that OCD curtailment would mean dangerous relaxing of our war effort, such as the President has warned against. There would be no more danger of that sort of relaxing than there would be in the withdrawal of a large military force from a conquered territory. It would be fine if the OCD should reduce itself voluntarily to fit the realities instead of trying to avoid them. If it is unable or unwilling to do this itself, then Congress could do it in the same way it did with the OWI.

LAST SUMMER when it heavily slashed the OWI appropriation for its domestic activities, there was a howl of anguish from those in charge. It was threatened that Mr. Elmer Davis, the solemn head of the OWI, would resign. It was said that "our work will be crippled" and that the national interests would suffer. Well, the work has not been crippled, the national interests have not suffered and, of course, Mr. Davis has not resigned. Voluntary reduction of the OCD machine also might release some single men, or some men married but not fathers, for the armed services, which need men badly. To some extent, this reduction might disarm the ferocious Congressmen who, insisting that there are thousands of government workers eligible for draft, refer to them as the "lost army."

FACES MURDER CHARGE DUE TO FLIRTATION

(International News Service) JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 27.—Because he flirted with a young woman roomer in his home, Tony Rogers, 47, faced a 15-year-old murder charge in Belleville, Ill. today.

His wife, Mrs. Omer Rogers, complained to Joliet police that Tony was paying too much attention to the young woman, Ruth Davis, 24. To a police suggestion that she seek a divorce, the wife retorted with the accusation that her husband had killed a John Smith in Belleville in 1928.

An inquiry brought the reply from Belleville authorities that Rogers was wanted for the slaying of John Smith.

The following is the inscription on the Confederate Monument in the Arlington Cemetery: "Not for fame or reward. Not for peace or for rank. Not for peace or for rank. Not lured by ambition, or goaded by necessity. But in simple obedience to duty. As they understood it. These men suffered all. Sacrificed all—Dared all—And died."

bers of congress like to come back year after year to such workshops. The White House is a pleasant place, too. It's also one of the finest boarding houses in the world. I'd like to live in those lovely rooms and be waited on by all those attentive people.

Unexpected incidents break the routine of the capital nowadays. A sight-seeing crowd paused one day in the corridor outside a closed door just across the senate lunch room to hear the sounds of the gospel hymn, "I Want To Be Ready Lord." A luncheon flavored with religion was in progress behind the door. Every so often a waiter hurried in with a big tray of food. Then the singing would stop.

Soon an intelligent young man, George S. Kendall, came out to explain the gathering to me. He is a theological student, but is about to go off to war. The singing luncheon was his idea. He said it occurred to him that many people must be looking for some spiritual inspiration to stir into their daily food. Kendall sent out inquiries to various district organizations, members of congress and to capital employees. He got Homer Rodeheaver, who used to be with Evangelist Billy Sunday, to lead the singing. There are no sermons. Instead a few words of introduction by Senators Capper, Green, Gillette, Van Nuys and perhaps Congressmen Gillie or Spranger or any one of 50 other members. "All kinds of people like to come to the luncheons," said Kendall, and hurried back to suggest another hymn.

Dedicate Service Flag On South Hill

Impressive Program Held On Sunday Afternoon Honoring
Boys Of Township

Dedication of the South Hill honor roll was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Shenango and Taylor township district, with quite a large crowd in attendance.

The honor roll was placed on the property of Adam Esposito and contained 71 stars representing the local boys in the service, and one gold star paying tribute to Sgt. Edward Obodinski, killed in action somewhere in the Pacific.

The Croton band, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Purdie, led the procession of mothers, and they marched to the honor roll. The band played the call to colors, and the American and service flags were raised by J. Stoner. Mr. Stoner later read the pledge of the V. F. W. and the assembly answered.

Mrs. Cosmo Bulisco, chairman in charge of arrangements, introduced George E. Hunt of the V. F. W. post, who was the master of ceremonies.

Rev. Fr. Albert M. Inteso, assistant pastor of St. Vitus church, gave the invocation, while Mrs. Mary Moran and Mrs. Mary Cwynar unveiled the honor roll. Ted Obodinski then placed the wreath of flowers on the honor roll, paying tribute to his brother, Sergeant Obodinski, who gave his life for his country.

Ted Cwynar then played the "Star Spangled Banner" and "There's a Star Spangled Banner Waving Somewhere," the selections being dedicated for the later Set. Edward Obodinski, Little Bobby Kwiat also played "Remember Pearl Harbor" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Rev. Martin Walker of the People's Mission gave the benediction. Mr. Hunt gave a fine talk honoring the boys in service, which was well received by the audience. Mrs. Evelyn Woods of the V. F. W. auxiliary spoke on the flag of our country. Joseph Frenkel and Norbert Urey gave inspiring talks on the third war loan drive, which is now in progress, and urged all to participate and do his best.

Mrs. Cosmo Bulisco, chairman, thanked all those who helped with the arrangements of the dedication. Later a tasty lunch was served to the band members and to those on the program.

GERMAN NAVAL BASE OF EMDEN HIT BY BOMBERS

evening a strong formation of the Boeing warbirds battered two German air installations in France.

An American air force headquarters communiqué meanwhile revealed that strong formations of four-engine Flying Fortress penetrated 80 miles east of Paris yesterday to smash at the Campaigne air-drome and the Junkers dive-bomber plant at Rheims in a heavy daylight attack.

Devastating Attacks
Supported by deadly American P-37 Thunderbolts and British Spitfires, the giant bombers carried out devastating attacks on the two vital spawning places of Nazi air strength without losing a single bomber or fighter.

Indication that the twin raids were executed in great strength was given in reports from watchers on England's east coast who said a mighty armada of planes roared toward the continent during the early evening in a "continuous stream."

American airmen returning from the attack on Rheims and Campaigne said Nazi anti-aircraft fire was heavy enroute to their targets but comparatively weak over the objectives. Only two Nazi fighters attempted to intercept the raiders and these were promptly chased off by the escorting Thunderbolts and Spitfires.

The American air force's participation in the pre-invasion softening-up campaign against Europe meanwhile was hailed by the London Daily Herald in an article predicting that the day is "almost here" when a thousand bombers will attack Hitler's fortress Europe in daylight.

These thousand-bomber raids said the Herald, will be carried out mainly by American Flying Fortresses and Liberators which would drop at least one thousand tons of bombs in each attack.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 27.—The observance of fire prevention week beginning Oct. 3 will enable Pennsylvanians to do a patriotic service on the home front, Gov. Edward Martin said today.

"Every fire which destroys American resources and impedes production aids the enemy," he declared. "By preventing, as far as possible, this waste of manpower and material we strengthen the American war effort and accelerate the forward drive to victory."

Local Man Hurt Early This Morning

Aloves P. Presnar, of the Oakland district, is in a Pittsburgh hospital, as the result of an accident enroute to Pittsburgh early this morning.

Presnar, who is employed by the Castle Distributing Company, is thought to have been standing on the running board of the truck, directing the driver, due to a heavy fog, when he is believed to have been jostled off onto the roadway.

Reports at noon today stated that no broken bones were found. J. A. McCormick, proprietor of the Castle Distributing Company went to Pittsburgh to investigate the circumstances.

Local Man Hurt Early This Morning

Three additional divisions have been added to the Pennsylvania district, the local division consisting of the clubs from New Wilmington, New Castle, Ellwood City, Beaver Falls, the Lower Beaver Valley, Btler and Mars, and will be known as District Two. More about these things will be told by Delegate Sam and the new district governor.

MORE KEY TOWNS TAKEN BY ALLIES IN NAPLES DRIVE

nounced. No allied planes were lost. The new advances followed Saturday's successes on both sides of the embattled Italian mainland when the British scored a 25-mile gain up the Adriatic coast toward Foggia while the fifth army climaxed a 30-mile advance in six days by seizing three villages northwest and east of Salerno.

Heavy Artillery Assaults
The battle is featured by tornadic American artillery onslaughts against Nazi mountain strongholds north and northwest of Salerno where infantry detachments also continue to mop up enemy nests one by one. There is hand-to-hand fighting, with the bayonet clashes so heartily disliked by the Germans.

Gen. Clark's men are within three or four miles of the canyons and passes leading into the Naples plain. In view of their traditional dislike for infighting with cold steel, the Nazis are falling back foot by foot.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, the Nazi commander, clings to his tactics of massing every spare man and weapon for defense of the passes. The Nazis withdrew steadily, however, and latest battlefield reports told of a sharp American salient jutting forward at its most northerly point to Cassano, placing the Yanks on a level with Naples 40 miles to the east.

The Cassano salient put Clark's forces two miles south of the important highway leading into Avellino and Naples, while capture of Calabritto gave the Americans a strategic road and river junction, facilitating movement of military traffic. Capture of Cassano represented an 11-mile advance from Acerno.

Impeded By Demolition
On the right wing, the fifth army bucked the rear-guard resistance and were impeded by extensive demolitions and unfavorable terrain.

Troops of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British eighth army dogged the Germans on the eastern front, moving forward steadily and occupying the highest point yet taken on the Adriatic coast just below the salt lake named Margherita di Savoia.

Montgomery crossed the Afanto river against only slight resistance. His line now runs from Di Savoia southeast to captured Arignola, 24 miles below Foggia, giving him access to command the Foggia plain. The British line then drops sharply south to Montemilione, southwest to Atella and Muro and northwest to Calabritto, thence southwest to Muro across into the Salerno line.

In the western sector of the blazing Mediterranean battlefield, French army troops, fierce Moroccan Goums and American Rangers brought the end of the Corsican campaign in sight by driving to within four miles of the Nazis' evacuation port of Bastia.

In Saturday's bitter fighting in the hills shielding the Tyrrhenian seaport of Naples, the fifth army beat down desperate Nazi resistance to inch forward one mile toward the open plains south of Naples.

Heaviest Fighting
Heaviest fighting is raging in the central sector of the fifth army

HAILE SELASSIE MAKES SPEECH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia, speaking from Addis Ababa in his first broadcast to America since his restoration to the throne, declared this morning that "never again will the Axis powers be permitted territorial acquisitions in Africa."

Speaking over an NBC hookup which, due to atmospheric disturbances, was not suitable for broadcast, the Ethiopian emperor, first of the exiled monarchs to be restored to power by the Allies, declared that "Fascism has been crushed forever."

"Our thanks go out to God, to almighty God, who has shown the British and American Allies the way to Africa and our thanks go to the Allies for freeing Africa from the threat of totalitarian aggression," he added. "With that threat of aggression removed, we know that the Axis powers will never again be able to make territorial acquisitions in Africa."

Railroad Agent In Italy Aids British

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A Reuter correspondent in southern Italy told today how an Italian railroad stationmaster, wearing his top hat and frock coat, participated in an adventurous raid by British troops behind enemy lines.

They drove a train north into German-occupied territory where they released several hundred prisoners—mostly Yugoslav troops. The stationmaster went with the British to "make sure they found their way."

The British met little opposition, even on the return trip. The raiders looked more like an excursion party when they returned.

not been in India and there has been no offensive there. But there is an offensive under Douglas MacArthur.

"It seems to me this theater of war should be one grand operation. I think it would be wise if those directing the war gave the command of that operation to MacArthur, who is now on the move and who has done a splendid job with the troops and equipment so far at his disposal. He will do a great deal more if supported."

Others accompanying Chandler on the war tour were Sens. Richard B. Russell, Georgia Democrat and chairman of the group; Ralph O. Brewster, Maine Republican; James M. Mead, New York Democrat; and Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts Republican.

Surprised at War Scope
Surprise at the thorough distribution of fighting material to all parts of the world was expressed by the group.

"The American soldier is the best fed, best clothed, best equipped and soon will be the best trained soldier on any front," declared Sen. Russell.

Continuing on the subject of a Pacific offensive, Sen. Chandler said that "it is mighty important that we create a major front there to keep China in the war."

"It is plainly evident that if our air bases in China are lost the war will be prolonged and many more lives lost," he said.

"So far it has been up to America to keep China in the war. The British have not made any showing of consequence. We are the ones who operate the forward bases."

"Gen. Chennault and his boys are doing a remarkable job, but they need support in flying supplies from Burma to their China bases, shutting planes over the 20,000-foot Himalayas and over Jap-held airfields."

Chandler said he intended to push efforts in Washington to have General MacArthur named "supreme commander of all the Pacific area."

AROUND CITY HALL

During council meeting held in city hall today council authorized the taking of bids on a parcel of land, acquired by the city at a delinquent tax sale. A local conservation organization desires to obtain the land which is at County Line street and Hickory township. Trees will be planted there providing the organization acquires the land.

There has been a mild epidemic of auto stealing here recently. However, practically all the cars reportedly stolen have been located, either by police or owners. Two cars were found Sunday. However, John Grash, Neshannock boulevard, told police his Ford, Pa. license 9930V was stolen from a parking lot, Sunday evening.

Traffic Strike In Los Angeles Area Is Ended

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—War-torn freight was on the move again today to and from the factories and shipyards of the Los Angeles area.

Extra train crews labored to clear away the jam caused by two days of strike that paralyzed the interurban rail and bus facilities of the Pacific electric system.

At the same time service was back to normal on passenger lines that carry 400,000 persons daily. Pacific electric trainmen and bus operators were back at work after a futile 48-hour effort to force the government to allow them a 13-cent an hour wage increase.

Their strike, coming while facilities already were over-loaded with wartime traffic, confronted the 100 communities of the Los Angeles area with the greatest transportation crisis they had ever known. Freight piled up on sidings as far as 200 miles away.

The strikers ended their walkout at 2 a. m. yesterday after local and national leaders of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen told them, with pleas and threats, that they must.

Secret Weapons Talk Is Effort To Help Nazi Morale

So Declares Dispatch From Stockholm By Correspondent Recently Ousted
By Nazis

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—A hint that high-ranking Nazi officials have been cooperating with the British intelligence service "for years," was contained in a dispatch today from Stockholm.

Arvid Fredborg, Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet until he was expelled from the Reich this summer, was quoted as saying on his arrival in Stockholm that after the war the world may learn that high Nazi officials worked hand in hand with British agents over a long period during the conflict.

Fredborg said that Allied secret service agents are operating throughout Germany. Some, he said, have been there since the beginning of the war, others parachuted from British planes and still more arrived from England in small boats.

Another expelled Swedish journalist, Gunnar Phil, described by the London Daily Telegraph as "the last man from Berlin," reported that Nazi Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels is seeking to bolster seriously wavering home-front morale by spreading a whispering campaign about "secret weapons."

One of these weapons was purported to be a new long-range gun capable of reaching London.

Phil said he knew personally of the existence of an experimental rocket gun having a 100-foot barrel and a reported range of 125 miles.

He said two million civilians have been evacuated from Berlin and reported that the German capital is now a nervous, grumbling city and that the people are sullen and apathetic but not rebellious.

Phil reported that the German railway system is near the breaking point as a result of Allied bombings and that the RAF and Red army are bracketed as German's "public enemy No. 1."

The correspondent disclosed that the German army in Russia nearly collapsed as early as the winter of 1941 for lack of locomotives and said early spring thaws in the Ukraine saved the day for the Nazis in 1942 when they were desperately short of tanks.

German war production, Phil said, has dropped 15 to 20 per cent from the peak figure of the autumn of 1941.

Dispatch From Stockholm Asserts Sabotage By Members Of Crews

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Sabotaging of the German warships Tirpitz, Scharnhorst and Luetzow by their own crews was reported today in a Reuters dispatch from Stockholm.

Nazi sailors were said to have damaged the warships as they lay in the Alten Fjord, at the northern tip of Norway near Hammerfest, when they learned of the surrender of the Italian fleet. The extent of the damage was not disclosed.

The Tirpitz and Scharnhorst are battleships of 40,000 and 26,000 tons, respectively. The Luetzow, of 10,000 tons, is the former pocket battleship Deutschland.

Norwegian circles in London said all three participated, with the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, in the recent Nazi naval attack on Spitzbergen. The German DNB agency claimed on Friday that a small British submarine was destroyed in a Norwegian fjord as it attempted to torpedo the Tirpitz.

County Teachers Have Institute

Three Hundred Attend First

Three hundred county teachers attended the institute sessions held in Union township high school, Saturday when an interesting program was presented.

The opening session began at 9 a. m., and following an intermission for lunch, was continued through the afternoon.

Dr. Frank Wright, former New Wilmington man, who has been a member of the Massachusetts Educational Commission, urged teachers to adopt a high standard and to check up on themselves to see if they were adhering to the highest principles.

Dr. Douglas G. Haring, associate professor of sociology at Syracuse University, spoke on China and Japan, and stated that the people of this country would have done better to have devoted more time to the study of the language, thought, and customs of the people who were referred to in the past as from the Far East, but who were our immediate western neighbors.

Dr. L. H. Beeler, professor of history at Grove City college, gave two interesting addresses on American history.

Hannah Atwood Parks, supervisor of special education, gave a review of her work, and announced a speech clinic, which would be held in the rooms of the county superintendent, court house annex, on Saturday mornings, application blanks for which can be secured at the county superintendent's office. Woman On Trial For Husband's Death

Poisoning Of Husband Charged In Trial Starting At Waynesburg

(International News Service)
WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—Attractive Nancy Jeannette Holt, 28-year-old statuesque blonde accused of poisoning her husband, Jesse, 33, a construction worker, by Jesse stages, went on trial for her life today.

District Attorney A. M. Nichols and Special Prosecutor James E. Isherwood disclosed the state will claim Mrs. Holt, formerly of Ravenna, systematically fed her spouse poisoned food until he died last May 27.

In support of its charges, the state is expected to call an array of 54 witnesses, including a Waynesburg insurance agent and his wife who lived in the same apartment as the Holts, three druggists, several fellow-workers of the dead man, a physician, pathologist, and chemist.

Holt, operator of a giant tractor on the "Big Inch" pipeline, became ill early in May and succumbed several weeks later to what physicians first called "natural causes."

Shortly after, an autopsy disclosed the presence of poison in the construction worker's body. A Waynesburg grand jury then indicted the woman and ordered her to stand trial. The information didn't specify the motive for the alleged murder.

.. Now, for fighter and worker alike.. the "BIG PUSH" is on!

On the battlefronts and on the production fronts the drive for Victory sets an even greater pace

Even as this message is released, the fleets and armies and air power of the United Nations press in upon our enemies from all directions. In Europe the attack comprises (1) mighty American and R.A.F. air blows from Britain; (2) assault by sea, air and land from Africa and through Italy; (3) the irresistible power of the great Russian war machine.

Against Japan there are (1) air and land attacks through China and from India; (2) our relentless push up through New Guinea from Australia; (3) attacks by our fleets on enemy outposts; (4) recovery of the Aleutians as a base for possible future offensives.

Back the Attack
We can all join the "Big Push"—and we must!—by buying the War Bonds and Stamps that put more and better weapons in the hands of our brave fighters. Buy more War Bonds and back the attack!

And with ever-increasing demands on America's manpower for the fighting forces, war goods manufacture, food production and other necessary civilian activities, General Motors is keenly aware that the demands of the crucial months ahead call for utmost devotion to the job—for even greater efficiency and productivity from those of us left to work when so many have gone to fight.

Keeping Pace With Change
Successful production for war means change—change to match or surpass the improved weapons of our enemies—change to fit our weapons to new and constantly changing theaters of war—change to build improvements and new designs into our war production, based on the lessons of experience on the actual battlefields.

Of course, changes in production mean temporary setbacks in volume of output, involving, as they do, many problems of tooling, material supply and retraining of manpower.

Nevertheless, General Motors is meeting the demands of these changes, with all the difficulties they present, and at the same time continuing to push production higher and higher—now more than 100% above a year ago—each quarter higher than the last. Through improved methods and more effective organization of production we are giving our fighting forces more and more guns, planes, tanks and other war supplies.

We know our job is to give our armed forces "what they want when they want it."

The ultimate in production will depend on the country's decision on the balance between war production and manpower requirements for other purposes.

Every American can well be thankful for the demonstrated ability of our military leaders to cope with the changing requirements of this mechanized and global war.

And it should be equally gratifying to know that American industry has also been able to adapt itself to these changing conditions. Cooperating with the military, American industry is performing the greatest production feat in all history.

The Job Ahead
The crucial months ahead will doubtless bring equal if not greater problems, as new strategies call for new equipment.

There must be no let-up in the war effort. There must be the utmost devotion to the job on the part of every man and woman in industry. We are acutely conscious of the need for increased effort, improved methods, greater efficiency and, above all, more effectiveness from available manpower.

As long as the "Big Push" is on along the battlefronts, the production push for more and better weapons will continue in General Motors plants—so that we may deliver, as we are now delivering, our allotted share of the overwhelming air power, fire power, armored power, mobile power and sea power which, on battlefronts the world around, already foretell the Axis' doom.

Lee, construction engineer who designed the building, Paul J. Maholich of the office of Community War services, Harold R. Allen, region supervisor of the United Service organizations, and Brigadier Harold R. Smith of the Salvation Army, director of the U. S. O. in Greenville.

In his address, Paul J. Maholich paid tribute to New Castle for the work of the citizens in furnishing rooms at the camp when it was first opened.

A crowd of 2500 attended the dedication services which were held from the porch of the new recreation building.

Potatoes should be dug as soon as the tops die down. This is especially important during a wet season. Dusting the potatoes with storing them for the winter is a wise precaution.

PATROL VESSEL OF NAZIS SUNK

British Naval Force In Clash With Nazi Squadron Near English Coast

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—A German patrol vessel was sunk and several others damaged Saturday morning when a British naval force clashed with a Nazi squadron off the east coast of England, the admiralty announced today.

The German Transocean Agency meanwhile told of another engagement between British torpedo boats and escort ships of a German convoy early this morning off Pecamp, 22 miles northeast of the French port of Le Havre. "Several" of the British craft were alleged to have been heavily damaged.

The admiralty said one British trawler, the HMS Franc Tireur, was torpedoed and sunk during Saturday's engagement. But at least one Nazi craft was set afire and sunk and several others damaged before the enemy force fled to the east.

One British motor launch suffered some damage in ramming a German E-boat, said the communiqué. The British force consisted of trawlers, light coastal craft, corvettes and destroyers.

Britons consume 30 per cent more fresh green vegetables than they did before the war.

JAPANESE NOT SO INVINCIBLE

(International News Service)
MELBOURNE, Sept. 27.—Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of Allied land forces in the Southwest Pacific, reported today that the campaign against the big Japanese New Guinea base of Finschhafen is "going well."

"The enemy is bunkered there," he said.

As for the remaining enemy bases on New Guinea, Blamey said there are strong nests of resistance still to be overcome at Madang, Wewak and Hollandia.

"The Japanese," he said, "are not nearly as determined as they were before the capture of Buna, when they stuck to and fought for all they had. The Japanese themselves have changed their opinion about their invincibility."

ALL A MISTAKE

(International News Service)
PHILIPSBURG, Pa.—The air raid alarm that sounded in a heavy rain in Phillipsburg was all a mistake. Someone was unable to get the fire department's number. This led to the calling of another number, used until a year ago to sound the steam whistle in case of fire. But to the civilian defense workers the steam whistle meant only one thing, and out they flocked into the rain. The all-clear was sounded to recall them.

O.P.A. OFFICIAL QUITS IN PROTEST

Chief Of Agency's Restaurant
Branch, S. C. Wennberg,
Resigns Post

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. — The Office of Price Administration's restaurant price control program received another setback today with the resignation of Samuel G. Wennberg, chief of the agency's restaurant branch.

Informed sources said that Wennberg quit in protest against the absence of a forceful effort on the part of OPA policy-making officials to roll back exorbitant restaurant prices.

The program has been stymied for weeks, it was learned, by provisions of the Taft anti-grade labeling amendment and opposition of the Federal budget bureau to a survey of restaurant price conditions.

Thus far, OPA's efforts in this important field of price control have been confined to "freezing" restaurant prices at the levels of last April 4-10.

Wennberg, it was understood, regarded the "freeze" as only a half-way measure which pegged prices at exorbitant levels.

Faked Message Doesn't Fool U. S. Flying Sergeant

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27. — The acumen of an American sergeant who refused to believe an operational message faked by the enemy and thereby saved an entire wing of Flying Fortresses in the course of a recent raid was praised by the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes today.

The flier was Sgt. Norman Rowe, of Rochester, N. H., who has been recommended for the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The faked message read: "Abandon operations and come back." Rowe refused to believe it and demanded a check before handing it up to the pilot. The check showed no such message had been sent. Rowe's suspicions saved the entire Fortress wing from being drawn into fighter of flank ambush.

Recommendation for the DFC was made by Col. Frederick Castle, of Washington, D. C., the group commander.

En route home from the recent bombing of a Nazi fighter assembly plant at Cognac, France, Rowe's alert radio reception resulted in picking up a warning of thick weather ahead, enabling the Forts to land in compact formation on the first USAAF night operational landing in the European theater.

Axis Celebrates Without Italy

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 27. — Germany today celebrated the third anniversary of the tripartite pact—minus Italy.

However, a German agency transmission said Japan has "restored" Italy to the Axis—at least as far as official Tokyo is concerned—by granting recognition to Benito Mussolini's puppet "Italian fascist republic" government.

The Berlin wireless said the anniversary of the Axis pact would be marked by radio addresses by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Mussolini and Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu.

TO GET WAR REPORT

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. — More than 200 industrial, labor and newspaper executives begin a two-day conference with high army officers today to receive a confidential report on the war.

The home front leaders—representatives of the "Army's partners on the production front"—were invited to the War Department by Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, who will preside at the opening session.

Autopsy May Disclose Some New Information

(International News Service)
FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 27. — The race for life which tiny, 13-day-old Beverly Helen Primus lost after a spectacular 1,400-mile plane trip from her home in Des Moines, Ia., might not have been entirely in vain.

Dr. Rudolph Osgood, resident physician at Truesdale hospital, in Fall River, announced today that an autopsy will be performed on the body of the baby with the upside-down stomach. This autopsy, to secure "accurate information as to the cause of her death," might yield a medical secret which will save the lives of other babies, it was said.

Beverly died Sunday, 38 hours after her arrival here. Oxygen was administered day and night, but both lungs had collapsed through pressure from a diaphragmatic hernia. There was no chance for an operation, which her parents had hoped would save her life.

Man Who Claimed To Be 132 Years Old Is Taken By Death

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 27. — Sayed Mehrem, who claimed to be 132 years old and said he was born in Egypt while Napoleon still ruled Europe, took the secret of his actual age into the mystery of death today. The patriarch, with skin the hue of yellowed papyrus and a fringe of white hair, came to the United States in 1893 while the World's Columbian Exposition was in progress. A copper plate engraver by trade, Mehrem was discharged from a WPA job six years ago when his foreman learned he purportedly was 126 instead of the comparatively youthful age he had given WPA officials. His philosophy of longevity was:

"Self harmony is the key to serene and long living. I pray five times a day; while in restful and helps rebuild the body tissues. I don't drink, smoke or eat pork."

SEVEN ARMY FIERS KILLED

(International News Service)
DENVER, Sept. 27. — Seven Army fliers died in a bomber crash in residential South Denver, investigators said today, after the pilot's last act was to "try to keep from killing anyone else."

Residents of the area said the plane's pilot, Second Lt. John Kevin Desmond, of Everett, Mass., "obviously tried desperately to avoid crashing into a tall sanitarium building and thickly-grouped area of homes" when he found his four-engine Liberator bomber was going to crash. Otherwise, many civilians might have been killed.

forbidding Alaska to Europe's bloody battlefronts; down across the arid waste of the African Desert exposed to the merciless sun; to Asia's diverse peoples and unending vastness; to the Land Way Down Under; to the Equatorial lands, and almost impenetrable jungles, where death, disease, danger and destruction stalk their prey; to the not-so-romantic islands of the South Seas; our troops are spread out today.

Our convoys and ships have to ply their ways through from the icy flocks of the Bering Straits, to the anything-but-peaceful Pacific, down around the Capes, across the submarine-infested waters at the risk of their own lives. Yes, our forces are fighting on the 6 Continents and 7 Seas.

This is a lightning war. Lightning doesn't give any warning when or where it will strike. Herr Hitler has heard the ominous rumbling and knows what it spells. Our men have to be continually on their toes to catch the Nips napping.

Back the attack. Let's be on our toes, too. Let's be on the actual front lines with our fellows by supplying them with superior weapons, superior equipment to hasten the setting of the Land of the Rising Sun.

JOB SUGHT FOR DISABLED SERVICE MEN

By BESS HANNA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Civil Service already is conferring with other departments, looking toward immediate placement of disabled service men and women in government jobs, commission officials said today.

Faced with 1,000 returning daily from the armed forces, the commission is hastening plans to provide jobs.

"It is clear," Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming said, "that in this—as in all other matters affecting employment—the federal government should take the lead."

Charles R. Anderson, administrator in charge of re-employment of disabled veterans, is holding continual conferences with business, industry and government leaders to facilitate pre-absorption of service men and women into our national life as soon as their active war duties are over.

Medical officers of the Civil Service, he said, have visited shipyards, ordnance plants, arsenals and factories throughout the nation. They watched men at their work to see what physical movements were necessary to perform various tasks safely and efficiently, and found 2,500 different jobs that can be ably performed by handicapped persons.

With this knowledge, Anderson stated, a year and a half ago the commission undertook the placement of 15,000 physically handicapped persons to find out how they would adjust themselves and whether their employment would be practical. Results proved their employment highly desirable, both from a standpoint of efficiency and the release it gave able-bodied men needed in vital war services.

Do A Maximum Job

The commission expects little difficulty in convincing appointing officers that they stand to lose nothing in hiring disabled servicemen for experience has shown their absenteeism and accident records to be lower and their production records higher than normal.

"It is often difficult to provide them with enough work," Anderson said. "Astounding as this may seem, it is mainly the result of judicious placement, plus the individual's realization that this is his 'opportunity,' plus a desire to make good."

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 27.—The state defense council has apparently abandoned its campaign against black markets because "there seems to be an increasingly hopeless attitude on the part of consumers."

Mrs. Conway Zirkle, director of consumer interests, blamed federal government agencies which agreed distribution problems exist but "have failed to take effective action."

She said that while few indications of so-called "gangster" markets activities are evident outside Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Lancaster and Erie, obedience to regulations at the retail level seems to be slackening.

The Pennsylvania State College will sponsor an editorial contest among 690,000 high school students and print the winning contributions in newspapers throughout the state on New Year's Eve. The contest, given in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, will be supervised by E. Arthur Sweeney, secretary of welfare during the James administration.

The theme will be America's Democratic Freedom with special emphasis on Freedom of the Press. Prizes ranging up to $250 have been offered.

The state defense council has become aware of some opposition to night air raid drills and has appealed for more cooperation. Most of the opposition revolves around a belief that air raid alerts should not be held unless absolutely necessary, meaning enemy bombers overhead.

"Contrary to popular belief," said Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, executive director, "our warning system is very similar to England's, the basic difference being that England is in a state of continuous blackout every night and does not need the blue caution signals."

He added that the public would be better able to understand the system by forgetting the blue and red designations. "Just remember," he explained, "that a long steady blast means caution, a fluctuating or intermittent signal means attack (when people must be indoors) and a short steady blast means all clear."

Republican legislative leaders easily sidestep questions on whether a special session will be called primarily to reduce taxes. Gov. Edward Martin, however, has taken cognizance of Democratic contentions that a tax-reducing session would be convened next spring during the presidential campaign "for political purposes" by pointing out that such a move would be "excellent propaganda." Democrats feel such a move would enhance Republican chances in Pennsylvania.

Two Pitt Graduate Students To Come For Institute Here

First Cooperative Meeting On Group Leadership September 30 At YWCA

Instructors at the first of four Group Leadership Institute meetings sponsored jointly by the Girl Scouts, the Boy Scouts, Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A., and the Y. M. C. A. boys department, will be Miss Margaret Hartford and Mrs. Harriet Gershenson, both from the graduate School of Applied Social Sciences at the University of Pittsburgh.

"Songs and Folk Games" is the topic of the first Institute meeting on Thursday evening, September 30, from 7 to 9 at the Y. W. C. A. Miss Marie Hay, Girl Scout director, will preside. Each of the four co-operating agencies will be in charge of one program, during the fall.

Miss Hartford, who will be in charge of songs at the first meeting, is taking field work at the present time at Kingsley Association. She is a graduate of Ohio State University and has been a younger girls secretary in Y. W. C. A. work.

Mrs. Gershenson, who is a graduate of New York City college, has had experience as a camp counselor and volunteer leader of club groups. She is taking field work at the present time at Soho Community House. She will be in charge of folk games at the meeting this week.

Programs for the four meetings scheduled are designed to stimulate interest in group leadership of young people not only among service organizations but by individuals from church or civic groups.

Anyone interested may attend the institute. Registration fee for the four evenings is 50 cents. Already a number of registrations have been received at the offices of the sponsoring service organizations.

Second of the meetings will be on Thursday, October 7, when E. D. Hawk, of the Boy Scouts, will preside. The third will be on Thursday, October 21, when Miss Carolyn Slade, Girl Reserve Secretary, will be in charge. On November 4, Dario Baptiste, of the Y. M. C. A., will act as host.

COAST GUARD JAIL

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—The Rock House, at 125 years St. Louis' oldest building, has been leased to the Coast Guard as a jail for the St. Louis district. In former years it has served as a fur warehouse, a sail bag and tarpaulin factory, and a tavern. Although the interior will be converted into a brig, the exterior, restored by WPA labor in 1941, will be preserved.

Manure which is spread on the garden soil at this time of the year does not need to be well-rotted. The heat will be out of it before the growing season starts next spring.

LONG on Expenses? SHORT of Cash?

TODAY'S increased cost-of-living and the new Pay-As-You-Go Tax leave a lot less from each pay check for everyday needs. And when expenses like dental and medical care, house repairs or insurance premiums come along, they put a dent in the budget. In such cases, have you ever considered the advantages of a Personal loan? It provides $10 to $250 or more repayable in sensible monthly amounts.

Loans at Personal are arranged simply and privately on your furniture, auto or signature. Co-signers are seldom required. To get a loan, come in, phone or write.

OH! IS MY FACE RED!

Only 1 of every 8 persons in Lawrence County is "Backing the Attack" with Bonds. I'm 1 of the embarrassed 7. The more I think of it the smaller I feel.

HERE'S WHY

I felt slighted because no one stopped at my house to ask me to buy bonds. Of course, they may have been here when I was out but I never thought of that. I have some money in a savings account,—I even have some in an old coffee pot in the kitchen cupboard,—thought it was safer to keep some cash. But I've learned my mistake. Maybe it was because my nephew was wounded in Sicily; maybe it was because my banker explained to me that the accumulation of cash was dangerous to me and to the country as a whole. Maybe I realized that the people selling bonds are just bound to miss some people no matter how hard they try to cover the town. Anyway, you can—

COUNT ME IN ON "THE ATTACK" SOLDIER BOY. IT'S NOT TOO LATE

From now on I'm buying bonds with every penny I can scrape up. It's my duty to you who are fighting for us in all parts of the world. You're doing a job for me that I can't do, and you're doing it cheerfully and manfully. And besides, I'd just be foolish not to see that War Bonds are the best investment I could possibly make with what money I have. So I'm going downtown today and back the attack. I'm buying War Bonds now!

REPORT TO CITIZENS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

Lawrence County has done it again. On the face of the returns of the Third War Bond Campaign this county has purchased a total of $6,500,000 worth of war bonds against a quota of $6,307,000. It keeps the county's record for achievement clear, Lawrence is one of the few western Pennsylvania counties with such a record. It should call for cheers, but does it?

Let's look at the figures. How much of the money actually came from individual investors? At the start of the drive this group was to furnish 60% of the total subscriptions. That would give the government assurance of the "little fellow's" support, and would be the best possible curb against inflation. The goal on corporation subscriptions was 40% of the total.

Actually corporation subscriptions amount to 76% of the total. Business men responsible for their company's funds recognize the soundness of war bonds as an investment, and they realize the great patriotic need for financing the war on a sound basis. They "went to town;" they—more than any other group—put the job across. Added to that is a large number of subscriptions from fraternal and religious organizations, from labor unions, from employee credit unions, and organized groups of all kinds.

But what about the individual investor, the fellow that has a little money in the bank, or maybe in the sock at home. Sure, he's buying bonds out of his wages every month. But he still has some money laid away. Figures on bank deposits and currency circulation prove that. Yet out of a quota of $2,337,000 from war savings bonds (the $18.75 and up variety) only $607,000 has been raised. That's nothing for us in Lawrence County to shout about. We can do a lot better than that—we have thousands of boys in the service—we can't let them down, and we won't.

There are still a few days left to buy bonds. Perhaps you haven't been called on to buy. But after all, the general doesn't come around and tell the private when to fire his rifle or throw a grenade. Bonds are available at a dozen issuing agents in New Castle, and over a thousand workers are taking applications. Don't wait for someone to ask you to buy. Get the money and then go to someone and ask them to sell the bond to you. That's the way to "Back the Attack."

IF ONLY 1 OF EVERY 8 OF US SUPPORTED THE ATTACK, WHAT THEN?

We would die on the battlefield!

YOU would lose your liberty!

The Germans thought we were licked at Salerno. They told their people we were kicked into the sea. Well, they did give us an awful fight; for a few days it was nip and tuck. And a lot of good American boys are buried in Italy as a result. But we turned them back, they gave ground slowly—fighting for every foot. Hitler must be having a terrible time explaining what happened to his "victory" at Salerno.

But, believe me, it took every single man here to do the job—the Air Force, the Navy, the Generals, the Lieutenants, and the Buck Privates. One out of eight do the fighting? Why, man, if one out of a hundred failed to fight, we might have been on our way back to Africa right now.

If it takes every man here to do the fighting, it takes every man, woman and child at home to "Back the Attack". I don't want you to sacrifice the things you need to live on, but, gosh, there must be something everyone can do without to buy an extra bond.

You can count on us here — we're going to finish our job as soon as we can. But please help us, everyone of you, with the kind of backing we think we ought to have!

Yanks Flash Power In Double Win Over Indians.

Paddle Four Homers; Pirates Win First, 5-0, Drop Nightcap, 4 to 3

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Why are the New York Yankees established as 7 to 5 favorites to whip the St. Louis Cardinals in the world series? Is it a betting habit that has arisen from the winning ways of the Yankees, who last Saturday captured their 14th American league pennant, the seventh in eight years? Is it because of the incredible clutch of Manager Joe McCarthy, who will be piloting his ninth world series team? Or because the Yankees play the first three games of the series at home.

The answer to the heavy money that is backing the Yankees is found in none of these things, but in the way they completely dominated the opposition, a great example of which was their double victory over the Cleveland Indians yesterday, 3 to 2 and 6 to 5 in 10 innings.

Clout Four Homers

This doubleheader was marked by six home runs. The Yankees collected four of them. Charley Keller walked his 30th homer in the opener, giving Ernie Bonham a ninth-inning victory. Then, in the nightcap, the Yankees climbed on Cleveland for 11 hits, one of which was Keller's 31st homer. The great Bill Johnson hit a circuit clout in the first game and Ken Sears hit a three-run homer in the nightcap.

This is powerhouse hitting, but it was a single in the clutch which gave the Yankees their nightcap victory. Tucker Stainback came up with a single in the 10th inning with the bases loaded to sew up the game for the Yankees.

Although the Indians were foiled in their attempt to threaten second place, they were considerably heartened by the beating administered to the Washington Senators in the opening games of the Senators-Chicago White Sox twin bill. Although they dropped the nightcap, 5 to 2, the White Sox lashed the Senators in the curtain-raiser, 15 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox swept a twin bill with the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 2 and 6 to 2. Jim Tabor broke up the opener with a homer in the 10th inning off Dizzy Trout. Rudy York climbed ahead of Charley Keller for the A. L. home run championship by collecting two to raise his season's total to 32.

Athletics Lose Pair
The Philadelphia Athletics came within one game of their accustomed hundred yearly losses when they were edged out in both ends of a doubleheader by the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1 and 1 to 0.

In the National league, the Cincinnati Reds continued their determined drive to clinch second money by shutting out the Boston Braves in both ends of a doubleheader, 2 to 0 and 1 to 0. The twin victories gave the Reds six straight triumphs and a clean sweep of the Braves series.

The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the New York Giants, 5 to 0, in the first half of a twin bill, then dropped a 4 to 3 decision in the nightcap.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies, winning the first game, 4 to 1, and losing the nightcap to the Phillies, 3 to 2. The Brooklyn Dodgers split with the Chicago Cubs by taking the first game, 5 to 1, and dropping the second, 5 to 3.

'Canes Next Face Sharon High Club Here Friday Night

Team Spirit Draws Bridenbaugh Praise; Tigers Strong; Visitors Unbeaten

Further weakened by the loss of End Al Germani, New Castle high's unbeaten but tied football team is back at Taggart stadium this afternoon drawing a blue print for Friday night's home clash with undefeated Sharon.

Coach Bridenbaugh addressed the regulars in the dressing room and listed errors committed in the East engagement. The mentor was immensely pleased with the team's spirit.

Pleased With Spirit

"To be frank, I expected East to beat us. Our boys faced handicaps which I thought they would be unable to overcome. By holding East even, I'm thoroughly pleased. Boy, what spirit! That's just as important as victory to me," the coach remarked when asked to comment about the game.

There was a little ray of sunshine around the plant again as Mike Roussos, an unexpected participant last Friday, reported additional improvement. Mike suffered a dislocated shoulder. Trainer "Bill" Klee rigged up a special brace and strap for the giant tackle, so that Roussos could perform. He played most of the game and said that the shoulder didn't bother him.

Bob Lengyel, who replaced Germani, undoubtedly will serve in the left end post. Lengyel gave an excellent account of himself.

New Castle's fourth set, slated to start at 8:15 o'clock, will be a non-class AA WPAL fray.

The East tie, incidentally, will not affect New Castle's WPAL title chances.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

With hunting season not far distant, Councilman Joseph D. Alexander, who has charge of the city's parks, has ordered signs posted in city parks warning that hunting there is prohibited. Since Alexander went into office he has cooperated with Owen Fox, city forester and local naturalist who has tried to make the various city parks a refuge for wild life. Nowadays it is not unusual for one hiking in parks to see a ringneck pheasant, a squirrel ascend a tree or rabbit hop here and there, hence efforts to keep wild life safe will be continued this fall.

The Curtis Sheppard-Jimmy Birvins fight which was scheduled for Pittsburgh was cancelled. Sheppard took on Nate Bolden, received a lacing and this helped to oust the proposed show.

Washington's Homestead Grays moved into a 2 to 1 lead in their world's series with the Birmingham Black Barons at Chicago Sunday when they won 9 to 0. They play at Columbus Tuesday night. The Grays won the Negro National league pennant.

COLUMBUS, INDY IN A. A. FINALS

(International News Service)

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 27.—Only the playoff between the Indianapolis Indians and the Columbus Red Bird remained today to determine the American Association team which will play in the "little world series."

The Indians defeated the Toledo Mud Hens yesterday, 2 to 0. Milwaukee, winner of the American Association championship, previously had been eliminated in the playoffs.

Oversea Baseball Tour Plan Belongs To War Moguls

Recommendation Comes From Washington; Personnel, Managers, Departure Date Picked

By DAVIS J. WALSH

(International News Service Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—It can be stated authoritatively, and rather surprisingly, today that baseball's supposed idea of sending two all-star teams touring one of the war zones this fall for the entertainment of the armed forces wasn't really baseball's at all.

In fact, there is reason to believe that Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis never heard of it until asked to consider a highly placed recommendation for the tour.

The recommendation, we understand, came to Landis' office from the War Department in Washington.

Just how and when the War Department happened to turn its delectable attention to baseball, even if ever so briefly, at a time like this is another story which has neither point nor place here.

Seek Diversion

However, you can assume with some assurance that the military authorities are impressed by the need of providing immediate diversion for the troops who have been under fire . . . in whatever area the diversion can be feasibly furnished.

This being so, it can be definitely stated that the baseball party will leave for the Pacific area not very many days after the 1943 war series, scheduled to end in St. Louis by mid-October. It also can be stated that the teams (one each from the American and National leagues) and their managers have already been picked; that the personnel of each has been notified of the selection and, without exception, confirmed the deal at once.

The names, however, aren't for publication at this time, even if we had them, which frankly we haven't.

Party Includes 46

But this much at least can be said: It will be a party of not more than 46, kept rigidly at a minimum in order to interfere as little as possible with the vital life-line of munitions and men to the island bases. As has been previously published, 36 of the party will be active players.

In addition, each squad of 18 will have a manager, a trainer and a man who combines the duties of club secretary and scorekeeper. Each league likewise will have a representative with the tour; and the party, we believe, will be rounded out by two umpires, although we may be mistaken about this.

LOUGHRAN MEETS WRESTLER TODAY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—An attempt to settle the hotly contested question of whether or not a boxer can defeat a wrestler will be made today when Corporal Tommy Loughran of the Marines tangles with Dick Leven of the Coast Guard at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Loughran, retired undefeated light-heavyweight king, meets Leven, judo expert and highly-regarded grunt and groan artist, in a benefit match in which anything goes.

A crowd of 7,000 war workers is expected to watch the knockdown and drag-out affair with a pack of cigarettes as their admission fee. The cigarettes will be distributed among servicemen.

SUMMER STUFF

Two Marquette football players were injured during the summer practice period. One fell out of his bunk in the navy quarters. The other stubbed his toe while swimming.

SPORTS RAMBLINGS

Monday Wash:—

Spunk, Webster states, is mettle; courage; spirit. If you were one of the 8,501 Taggart stadium customers, the other night, New Castle high's football team gave a perfect illustration of the noun's meaning. East proved far superior, and the statistics will bear me out, yet the Youngstowners had to be satisfied with a 0-0 tie and were in a position to lose. From my pew, gameness and a refusal to quit prevented New Castle from absorbing setback No. 1 . . .

How did the 'Canes players accept the tie game? I never saw so many tears in a dressing room. Most of the boys were weeping because they felt "we let down Razzano. What will he think?" That midfield pop-pop, involving Coach Dick Barrett, Bridenbaugh and the officials, was set up by the Youngstown mentor who wanted to know about the rules. He was informed that Pennsylvania's scholastic grid laws were in effect and let it go at that . . .

Two former Bridenbaugh proteges, Lieut. "Bill" Chip and Pvt. Pete Tedesco, last season's quarterback, stopped in the dressing room following the East game to shake hands with their former "boss" and to congratulate the boys. Both servicemen were west coast bound . . . Mike Radock, Titan press whiz, and a stadium fan Friday, was unusually liberal in his praise of the 'Canes and the excellent stadium plan of accommodating fandom . . .

Accompanied by "Dike" Beede, Youngstown College grid boss, Eddie Conner witnessed the Pitt-Notre Dame clash Saturday. The stadium included an unusually large number of New Castle fans . . . Coach Grover C. Washabaugh, of Westminster College, has been making life miserable for the various members of the fish family during the past week . . .

Added tidbits:—The army thinks so much about recreation that more than $1,000,000 are spent monthly in equipment alone. Since July, 1942, more than $13,000,000 have been paid out for recreational supplies . . . Sharon high, Ne-Ca-Hi foe here October 8, is listed as one of the passing-out outfits in the district . . . The Third War Bond Drive ends soon, have you done your duty? . . .

Detroit Whales Dodgers, 27-0, In Pro Contest

Sinkwich Sparks Lions' Attack; Green Bay Ties Chicago Bears, 21-21

(International News Service)

The rejuvenated Detroit Lions, who failed to win a single game last season, served notice today they will be strong contenders for the National Professional Football league title this year.

The Lions won their second decisive victory of the season at Detroit yesterday, by overwhelming the Brooklyn Dodgers, 27 to 0, while the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers fought a 21 to 21 draw at Green Bay.

Frank Sinkwich and Charles Fennelback sparked the Lions to their second victory over Coach Gus Dorais, and Tackle Augie Liu booted two field goals, one from a difficult angle, in the second period. Harry Hopp, Ben Hightower and Elmer Hackney accounted for the Lions' touchdowns.

Bears-Packers Even

At Green Bay, the Packers battled furiously to a stalemate. Chicago tried desperately to break the tie in the last few seconds of play by sending in Bob Snyder to try a field goal from the Green Bay 42-yard stripe, but the Packers smothered the kick.

Bill Geyer, Harry Clark and W. T. Osmanski accounted for the Bears' touchdowns while Fritsch, Comp and Don Hutson rang up those for the Packers.

In an exhibition game at Buffalo, N. Y., the champion Washington Redskins rolled over the Chicago Cardinals, 43 to 21. Marshall Goldberg, veteran Cardinal, fractured his left ankle in the game, and Floyd Broke, rookie Chicago guard, broke a vertebra. Both probably will be out for the season.

Quick Pickups

By LAWTON CARVER

(International News Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Yankees are going to play in the world series (and may win it) but virtually all other honors will go to members of other teams . . . Applying of the White Sox is going to win the American League batting title and Musial of the Cards (who also are in the series, as you may have heard) is going to wind up as the leading hitter in his circuit . . . Wakefield, of the Tigers, looks like the rookie of the year . . . Nicholson of the Cubs figures to be the runs batted in champion of the National League and both leagues, while York is in line for the honor in the American . . . And York is still in front in the hot run race.

Announcement that Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox has been classified 1-A means that one of the two best second basemen in baseball is headed for the services if he passes exams . . . He and Joe Gordon of the Yankees remain the stand-out at the keystone . . . The immediate drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers would be the biggest blow of all to sports . . . Most athletes are under the age limit, and only a few physically incapacitated for military duty.

The proposed bout between Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery and Slugger White at Los Angeles definitely is off for the time being. Montgomery has assured the New York boxing commission that he will meet no one until he fulfills his obligation with Beau Jack on Nov. 19 . . . Extremist will be watched by latter day race fans at Belmont Park, Oct. 2.

Now 28 Years Old

Extremist, better known as Old Bones, now is 28 years old and, of course, merely will be paraded in the parade of champions, one of the highlights of the track's back the attack day, when all spectators will be required to purchase a war bond to get into the track.

MET FIRST TIME

Iowa's Hawkeyes and the Iowa Seahawks will oppose each other this fall, October 9, for the first time.

Wilbur Miller Scores Cementers' Touchdown In First; Gallops 55 Yards

(Special To The News)

EVANS CITY, Sept. 27.—After sporting a 6-0 edge for three quarters, Bessemer high yielded a touchdown at the start of the fourth period and merged off Evans high field with a 6-6 tie in its Saturday night embroglio with strong Evans City.

Wilbur Miller, speedy left half, sent the Bessemerites out front in the opening period by slashing off tackle and then skyrocketing down the middle for a touchdown. The measure 55 yards.

The host team then started a drive in the second quarter that carried all the way to the Cementers' 3. At this point, the Lawrence countians stiffened and held.

As play got underway in the fourth, Evans City took the pigskin near midfield and, using a ground attack mostly, reached the Bessemer four. Halfback Cary punched over.

Evans City out first downed the visitors, 8 to 3.

Miller and Lorella featured in the Bessemer backfield with the line playing impressively, especially in the second period rally engineered by the home team. Cary was Evans City's star.

In the betting odds Young is favored at 7-5. Their first meeting, which took place in a New York ring, resulted in a split decision.

STOCK MARKET
SLIGHTLY LOWER

Trading Is Moderately Active; Most Decreases Are Fractional Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Light but persistent liquidation depressed the stock market fractions to more than a point today. After a quiet, mixed opening, trading was moderately active.

Although practically all groups were lower, the chief targets were the rail equipments, rails, amusements and the specialties. Of a point or more at their lows were such leaders as American Car and Foundry, Lima Locomotive, Paramount Atchison, and Pepsi-Cola.

Aviations were mixed with Pan-American Airways off a point before recovering while steels, rubbers, utilities, oils and motors generally held prices or fractionally below the previous close.

Johns-Manville, opening up 1 1/2, was an early strong spot, but the issue fell behind a minus sign in later trading.

The bond market was slightly lower in moderately active trading.

Recount Shows
Big Change In
Constable VoteSecond Precinct Of Second
Ward Vote Recount May Elect Rupp

From the official recount of the ballots of the second precinct of the second ward today in the court house, it appears that Peter Rupp will be the winner of the Republican nomination for constable instead of John H. Gross, Sr., who appeared to be the winner by 34 votes on the face of the unofficial returns.

The official recount today gives Rupp 109 votes and Gross 124. The unofficial returns gave Gross 131 and Rupp 64.

The matter will probably be turned over to the district attorney for investigation and possible action. Following the filing of the unofficial returns, Mr. Rupp petitioned the court to open the box of the second precinct of the second ward alleging that he had information which indicated a substantial error of fraud had been committed in the counting of the ballots. No other allegations were made. He posted a bond of $50 which the county would have kept had no error or fraud been shown. As it is, Mr. Rupp's $50 will be returned to him.

No formal announcement was made by the court today as to who will win the nomination. If, at the conclusion of the official returns the total stands at 1395 for Rupp and 1377 for Gross as is indicated today, Rupp will undoubtedly be declared the winner.

Here On Thursday

Lilyville Congregation Hosts For One Hundredth Annual Session

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 27.—The 100th annual meeting of the West Pennsylvania eldership of the Church of God will open on Thursday night at eight o'clock at the Lilyville Church of God and will continue in session throughout Monday afternoon.

This marks the first time the eldership has ever convened at the local church, which is one of the oldest of the denomination.

The eldership comprises 53 churches and each pastor is permitted to have two delegates and a youth representative.

About 125 delegates are expected and will be entertained at the homes of the members. The noon and evening meals will be served by women of the church at the Franklin township fire hall at Frisco.

President, Rev. E. Starr, of Brackenridge, will bring the opening message, with the church ordinances to follow.

Friday morning will feature an election of officers and business meeting. The evening speaker will be Miss Mary Harshey, very recently returned missionary from India.

Business will occupy the Saturday sessions, and in the evening Rev. A. W. Jeffers, of Markleysburg, will speak on the subject, "Jesus Only."

Urges Draft Of Fathers By Age

Senator Bridges Would Have Men Under Thirty Taken First

SEES SUPPORT FOR SUCH LEGISLATION

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N. H.), member of the Senate military affairs committee said today there is growing support for legislation directing the army to induct married men by age classes.

This proposal, Bridges said, goes beyond the amendment to the Wheeler draft fathers deferment bill urged by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio). The Taft amendment requires calling married men 30 and under before those over 30 years of age.

By Age Classes
"I find strong support for an amendment which would direct the army to induct married men by age classes," said Bridges. "Since the army prefers young men, it might call first fathers 18 to 21, then 21 to 23 and so on. It seems to me this proposition has merit and I'd be inclined to vote for it."

With the Senate scheduled to open debate on the Wheeler bill tomorrow, Sen. Thomas (D-Okla.), chairman of the appropriations military subcommittee, swung his support for the measure.

"I am in no sense opposed to the drafting of married men if they are needed, but to date the need has not been established before Congress," he said.

Sen. Bailey (D-N. C.), planned to introduce a substitute for the Wheeler bill directing that all single persons of military age in the government be called before fathers are inducted.

Administration leaders estimated that the Wheeler measure will command less than 20 Senate votes. It is possible that it may be pigeon-holed by a motion to recommit it to the military affairs committee. Wheeler promised a fight for his measure, however.

Only three states—Kansas, Nevada and Utah—had more private and commercial vehicles in operation in 1942 than in 1941.

Joint Conference Held On Sunday

Rev. W. A. Thornton Discusses Temperance Conditions In Community

Splendid attendance and interest greeted the joint Adult, Administrative and Temperance conference held at the First Christian church of this city, Sunday afternoon, and the message of Rev. W. A. Thornton on conditions in New Castle and Lawrence county, was well received.

Rev. Thornton stated that this was the anniversary of the campaign he and the Christian people of the community, started to better conditions, and he reviewed the progress that had been made and the results accomplished, during that time. He made two recommendations for future action as follows: First, that the Sunday schools and churches in New Castle should appoint representatives so that there should be a committee of 100 whose duty would be to check up on existing conditions and seek ways and means to better them along constructive lines.

The second recommendation was that World's Temperance Sunday, October 31, be observed by the ministers and Sunday school superintendents of New Castle and Lawrence county, and the ministers of the various churches be requested and urged to deliver a message on this vital subject. Both of these resolutions were unanimously passed by the conference.

Following the message, the "Information Please" discussion period was conducted in charge of Rev. A. M. Stevenson, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Ellwood City, assisted by the following as "Experts": Rev. G. S. Bennett, minister of the conference church, who had charge of the opening devotional service; James A. Rugh, superintendent of the First Presbyterian church of this city; Rev. Oliver W. Hurst, minister of the First Baptist church, and Rev. W. A. Thornton. Many constructive remarks and suggestions were made and this part of the conference was helpful and educational.

A brief consecration service was suggested by Rev. Stevenson, in view of the present world situation and time of stress, and Rev. G. R. Thayer, minister of the Third United Presbyterian church brought this service to a close with a consecration prayer. Rev. Thornton pronounced the benediction.

This conference was under the auspices of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association and the New Castle district.

SOLVES COAL SHORTAGE
(International News Service)
VANCOUVER, B. C.—One Vancouver man solved the coal shortage. He got a job as a delivery truck driver for Arrow Kirk Coal Co., loaded up an order of four tons of coal and left the yard, presumably on the way to his first customer. His first customer was himself, and company officials have not heard of him or the coal since. Police located the truck empty.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?
(International News Service)
LEETONIA, O.—When Michael T. Leeson, 25, a six-foot, eight-inch pretzel bender weighing 270 pounds, was called by his draft board, all Leeson's friends said mentally, "Godbye, Mike." They figured he was in the army right then. But they were wrong. Leeson was rejected. "You are too tall," the draft board told him.

Most Panhandlers Are Eliminated

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The war practically has eliminated Chicago's population of panhandlers, except for those who are making it a life career, and even some of those have been forced, reluctantly, to take jobs.

This was the observation today of Detective Edward Mulcahy, who for 11 years has been on the "bum detail," arresting or warning the cadgers who prey on the public.

"War jobs at high pay, mounting costs of alcohol and sterner measures for the repression of panhandling have stilled the cadgers' chorus," Mulcahy said. "A number of vagrants went to Alaska at $11 a day as dishwashers when police pressure became too heavy."

"They didn't like that so much though, because of the scarcity of alcohol up there."

Further Restrict Sales Of Tires

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Office of Price Administration has restricted eligibility for new grade one passenger tires to "C" book drivers with a mileage of 601 miles or more per month.

Officials said that acute shortages of new tires are developing in many parts of the country and that a greater selectivity in the issuance of ration certificates was necessary to prevent serious disruption of war workers' transportation.

Today's order removes from new-tire eligibility all "B" drivers and some "C" book holders.

HUGE SALVAGE
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—WPB salvage officials estimated today that collections of used silk and nylon hosiery will reach a total of more than 2,500,000 pounds by the time the campaign ends Sept. 30.

Up to Sept. 15, over 49,000,000 pairs of worn silk and nylon hosiery, weighing 2,454,584 pounds, have been contributed by American women for use in the war effort, the WPB said.
